

1814: a fateful year for the North

Historic Seminar at the Nordic Embassies in Berlin 26 May 2014

Programme

- 1130 Guided tour through the exhibition "The Peace of Kiel" by curator Dr. Sonja Kinzler
- 1215 Buffet Lunch
- 1300 Welcome by Deputy Head of Mission Asbjørn Brandsrud (Norwegian Embassy)
- 1305 Greeting by Museum Director Dr. Doris Tillmann (Kieler Stadt- und Schiffahrtsmuseum) tbc
- 1310 Moderator Sebastian Balzter
- 1315 Prof. Ola Mestad (University of Oslo): The Norwegian Constitution of 1814 - Norway's moderate revolutionary approach
- 1400 Prof. Martin Krieger (University of Kiel): The Peace of Kiel: Politics and Identity in the North European Context
- 1430 Coffee Break
- 1500 Prof. Torbjörn Nilsson (Södertörns Högskola): A Menace or a Promise? The Norwegian Constitution in Swedish Politics after 1814
- 1530 Postdoc. Lone Kølle Martinsen (Syddansk Universitet): After 1814: Becoming National, Scandinavian – and Emotional
- 1600 Panel discussion
- 1700 Reception (Host: Ambassador Sven E. Svedman)
- 1830 End

Participants

Ola Mestad is dr. juris and Professor at the Centre for European Law, University of Oslo. He is Chair for the Norwegian Constitution research initiative and Head of the Council of Ethics for the Norwegian Government Pension Fund Global.

Professor of History Torbjörn Nilsson works at the Institute of Contemporary History, Södertörn University. He has written a major work on the history of the Swedish right and has for many years participated in projects concerning Swedish and Norwegian history.

Professor Martin Krieger is Head of the Institute for Northern European History at the Christian Albrechts University in Kiel. He has done research on the history of the Danish State, colonial expansion in the Nordic Countries and cultural exchange in the Baltic Sea region, and recently on the treaty of Kiel 1814.

Dr. Sonja Kinzler holds a PhD in History from the International University of Bremen. She has curated the exhibition "The Peace of Kiel — 1814: A Fateful Year for the North" at the Kieler Stadt- und Schiffahrtsmuseum and at the Nordic Embassies in Berlin in May and June 2014.

Postdoc Lone Kølle Martinsen holds a PhD in History from European University Institute in Florence. She is Member of The Danish 1814 Network and the Research Group Collective Identity and Europe at Copenhagen Business School.

Moderator Sebastian Balzter is Economy editor at Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung. He holds a Master's degree in History and Scandinavian Studies from Albrecht-Ludwigs-University in Freiburg im Breisgau, and was a research student in Bergen and Oslo.